Content Blocks with Wrap

The Wrap plugin can be used to create blocks of content that stand out, but not without some CSS.

Examples

The page title itself is an example. You can use this to combine the page summary (first paragraph below page title) with the title into a unit that's set off from the rest of the page.

A Heading

So here's a sample wrap containing what I hope to eventually be a nicely formatted, visually appealing bit of content.

It has to make use of at least some of the colour palette values I have, even though I still have to figure out how to do that in an organized way. The stuff in `styles.ini` isn't really helping much right now.

```
<WRAP announcement green smaller 46%>
```

Defined WRAP classes

These classes for WRAP should play nicely with all the other predefined WRAP classes.

| Font related classes                    |  |
|--|--|
| smaller  | font scaled to 90% of normal   |
| smallest                                       | font scaled to 80% of normal   |
| larger   | font scaled to 110% of normal  |
| largest  | font scaled to 120% of normal  |
| Container class                         |  |
| announcement                                   | main container for a given block   |
| Colours                                 |  |
| blue, orange, red, yellow, purple, aqua, green | Each of these set the background color for the Announcement. For each colour, a darker shade is automagically used for the border and heading. |
| Headings                                |  |
| H1 to H6                                       | Headings are modified to “fit” nicely only within Announcements. Headings are not required in a given Announcement.                     |

CSS Source

Everything needed is done in CSS. Some colours are defined in ini format - you can make them whatever you want.
